

RUBY SINGH & THE FUTURE ANCESTORS

Multi-award-winning and JUNO-nominated polymath Ruby Singh returns with The Future Ancestors, a genre-bending fusion of blues, gospel, hip-hop, and griot traditions that conjures myth, spirit, and reverence for the past while dreaming the world to come. At its heart is Singh's collaboration with the Memphis-born griot and Hoodoo practitioner Arthur Flowers, and gospel luminary, Khari Wendell McClelland. Together they weave story, rhythm, and prayer into a living ceremony of vibrant sound. Joined by Holly Eccleston (vocals), Gordon Grdina (oud, guitar), Kenton Loewen (drums), Paul Finlay (DJ), and Karlis Silins (bass), the ensemble channels ancestral resonance through explosive beats, gospel uplift, and poetic invocation. Their latest album, Celestial Libations, is blues as ceremony, hip hop as gospel, and story as spell—an ecstatic offering of resistance, reverence, and rhythmic prayer for the future.
